Report of the School Committee.

The affairs of our schools have been unusually quiescent the past year. Not in a single instance have your Committee been called upon to settle difficulties, either in school districts or school rooms. No cases of "failure" on the part of teachers have come to our knowledge, or of rebellion or disorder on the part of pupils; while also the good health and favorable weather which have allowed an unwonted degree of punctuality in the attendance of the scholars, call loudly for our gratitude to the great Giver of all our privileges.

As required by the new law, in Aug. last we posted notices of the "Act to compel Children to attend School" in every district. Yet the law is practically a dead letter in our community, for, the very few, who needlessly or willfully with-hold their children from school, it would be entirely useless to prosecute.

It is of the utmost importance in this "age of steam," i. e., of intense physical and mental activity, that habits of promptness and punctuality, be early formed by our children and youth; also, for their own success in life, that perseverance become a cardinal trait of their characters. To these ends the School Registers are especially conducive; and to encourage our young friends in the same direction, we append to this Report a Roll of Honor, answering to the numbers in column 18, Tabular Statement, which numbers would have been largely increased but for a few severe storms, great distance, temporary illness, and other similar causes, which occasioned the non-attendance of several pupils in almost every school, for one or a few successive days. For these Providential interruptions they, of course were not responsible. But let all our scholars be stimulated in future to take good care of themselves, physically, and to aim at that punctuality and perseverance each day and each term, which shall hereafter make the Roll of Honor include the large majority rather than the small minority of their number.

A private school has been kept for several weeks the past winter by Miss Susie J. Edgerly, in the neighborhood of Noah J. Shute's, where we have not heard that a new school district has been formed or contemplated! The school near David Shaw's, hitherto private, has now been visited and is herewith reported as No. 16, that district having been legally formed, and its existence being unmistakably evident upon our Town records.

The law now requires each School Committee to report to the State Supt. of Public Instruction by April 1st, of each year, the amount of money actually expended in each district during the year, and the amount left unexpended; also, the value of each school house and appurtenances, and the amounts laid out in repairs.  Let Prudential Committees or District Clerks see that these items are forwarded to us immediately after their respective school meetings are held, thus saving the expense of travelling over town to collect the desired information.

The school books now authorized to be used in town may be obtained at the store of J. J. Burley, at Clark's Corner. They are as follows: Willson's Series of Readers and Spellers, Colburn's and Robinson's Series of Arithmetics, Weld & Quackenboss' Grammar, with March's Analyzer and Guyot's Geographies. Harper's Writing books, though not required, are earnestly recommended, the marginal drawing lessons being most useful to give steadiness to the hand and cultivate the taste of the pupils, and the utterance of Horace Mann proving true, that "a child will learn both to draw and write sooner and with more ease than he will learn writing alone." Vocal Music is now a legally established branch of culture in our schools. There is nothing to hinder our becoming a nation of singers like the Germans. The sanitary benefit of vocal music cannot be over-estimated, while its moral influence in the school room is most benign. Our teachers the past year have therefore been authorized to spend at least 10 minutes each 1-2 day in singing. It has been practiced in every school but Nos. 3, 10, 11 and 16, and has been of superior excellence in Nos. 2, 5, 12 and 13. Gymnastics are reported as practiced in schools Nos. 1 and 12.

Only one of our teachers this year has never taught before, and she already deserves to be reckoned among the veterans. Prudential Committees, as will be seen by the Tabular Statement, column 19, very generally neglect to visit the schools for which they are appointed to provide, only three in town having proved exceptions to this statement. By adding the highest numbers in attendance, column 3, together with the numbers of corresponding terms not attending, column 5, the whole number of scholars in town, as reckoned by us for the past year, is found to be 295. It will be remembered, however, that part of the scholars assigned to No. 1, and a few in Nos. 2 and 4, are residents of Tilton and not of Sanbornton, while Tilton receives a somewhat smaller number of Sanbornton pupils, not reckoned in our tables. District No. 1 also receives money from Tilton, not here included in column 2, while $64.89 of Sanbornton money, not reckoned in column 2, goes to three other districts in contiguous towns. For the comparative sizes of our schools see columns 3 and 4, Tabular Statement. For their comparative lengths, see column 6; as to which takes the lead and how they follow in the matter of tardiness, see column 15 as carefully compared with columns 16 and 3. Column 20 shows us that the best school houses are best visited by the citizens, as a general rule.

No other general observations seeming needful, we now call your attention to the individual schools, or brief notes suggested by them, the familiar name of each District, and the name of the past year's Prudential Committee being given after each number.

DISTRICT No. 1.

"Calef Hill." Arthur J. Crockett. This district has enjoyed a greater amount of schooling than any other in town, 25 weeks in three terms, the two first being reckoned as one in this report. The school is also next to No. 1 in the aggregate amount of tardiness, see column 15, where eight scholars appear to have the grave responsibility of 66 tardy marks! Miss Emma L. Garvin, first term, followed very successfully upon her labors of last year. Miss Emma A. Ford, second term, presided with grace and dignity, requiring thoroughness and discountenancing the use of loose, unguarded expressions, especially in mathematical studies. (1st visit.) A good degree of facility noticed, both in questioning and giving answers, (2d visit.)

DISTRICT No. 2.

"Square." Joshua Lane. Both terms taught by Miss Georgie B. Perley, who, if she has closed her labors as a teacher in this town, to the great regret of her numerous patrons, could not have done so more prosperously. The process of learning to read most happily exemplified in the youngest pupils. Classification most complete of any school in town: the largest Geography class, which acquitted itself nobly at examination. Also, the first and second Arithmetic and Algebra classes gave us some of the best black-board exercises any where seen. Several of the larger scholars, the winter past, have probably attended district school for the last time. One of these is already numbered among our teachers in this report. Music and declamations, of a high order, at the final Exhibition. Whether we will or not, the young Misses of our schools, in all parts of the land, are now being trained for our future orators.

DISTRICT No. 3.

“Hunkins.” Lewis R. Hunkins. Miss Ella Woodman, as last year, teacher. Two excellent scholars in Arithmetic, one of whom had made blocks for the explanation of cube root, and could use them to good advantage. Two others formed a class in Geography, who were able to draw rough maps on the board, from memory, of every State or Country they had passed over, making, on the whole, one of our most satisfactory examinations in Geography. The same practice is recommended to all our schools. By this, by the use of the black-board in spelling, and in other ways, the teacher showed the fruit of her attendance upon the Teachers’ Institute.

DISTRICT No. 4.

“Meadow.” Charles Bowers. Teacher of the Summer term, Miss Ellen A. Knowlton. Illness of the visiting member of the Committee prevented a second visit at the close of her term. But under the excellent management and instruction of Mr. Otis S. Sanborn, our only male teacher in town, this school, during the winter term, has effectually removed all occasion for adverse criticism which may have existed in the past.

At the close of the first week the needless noise and restlessness, which had been noticed in former terms, had almost wholly disappeared. The pupils were all well at work, and doing it quietly. At the final visit a more gratifying evidence of progress has rarely, if ever, been afforded. This ten weeks of school has been more profitable than twenty weeks would have proved, under other conceivable circumstances. Written Arithmetic classes appeared well, and the cube root was explained in the clearest manner that we ever heard, when explained without blocks. But the great triumph, intellectually, for this school, has been the apparent mastery of Colburn’s Arithmetic, by a class of fourteen, including all the larger scholars, who showed unusual interest, and gave us a fine display of mental gymnastics. Let Colburn's be thoroughly conquered, and half the battle is won for any "Higher" Arithmetic.

DISTRICT No. 5.

"Bay." George N. Sanborn. Miss Mary A. Robinson, taught in the summer, with favorable prospects at the commencement, but through some misunderstanding we were not informed of the time that the school was to close. Mrs. Cynthia A. Hill, instructor during the winter term. She brought her former valuable experience, in this and other schools, to bear very happily upon the progress of the pupils, though a lack of confidence hinders some of them from expressing as much as they really know. In tones and loudness of voice, a perceptible improvement between the first and last examinations.

Singing very good.

DISTRICT No. 6 .

"Morrison." Luther Morrison. One term; Miss Susie J. Edgerly, teacher: who proved energetic and successful in her labors. The black-board in this school room is reported as unfit for use. In this, as in some other schools, not sufficient attention is paid to the definition lessons of the reading books. Belle K. Batchelder made the greatest improvement in writing. The class in Grammar, though small, appeared to good advantage.

DISTRICT No. 7.

"Stone Bridge." Ira T. Colby. Miss Carrie P. Taylor, teacher, Summer and Fall terms, making a very promising commencement, of what we trust may prove, her long career as a teacher, winning the affection of her pupils to an unusual degree and laboring hard for the marked improvement which they made. Are the parents of this district ashamed of their school house, that they do not visit it more frequently? (See column 20, Tabular Statement.)

DISTRICT No. 8.

“Clarks Corner.” Thomas Bickford. One term of School taught by Miss Georgie B. Perley, between her two engagements at the Square. So large a number of young pupils rarely present so dignified and orderly an appearance. This School also gives us in one of its oldest members the best individual scholarship noticed in town the past year. Instruction eminently practical, and skillfully adapted to all ages and attainments.

DISTRICT No. 9.

“Chapel.” Calvin P. Burley. One term of fourteen weeks, under the instruction of Miss Jennie S. Emmons; “Last few weeks interrupted by the bad weather and Falls’ work.” No special preparation for the final examination, from which, a portion of the best scholars were absent. Miss Emmons had only two months’ experience in teaching before coming to this school, through which she labored faithfully and to general satisfaction. Progress of the smaller scholars especially marked.

Fred M. Morrison bears the palm for improved writing.

DISTRICT No. 10.

“New State.” James E. Knox. Miss Anna A. Shaw, teacher the first term. Mrs. Celeste J. Stackpole, the second term. Both successful. Four boys in this school form one of the best reading classes, of their age, in town; though others are among the poorest.

The smallest pupil during the Summer term afforded a specimen of the most rapid spelling on record. A classification of the whole animal creation, in Natural History, was rendered memoriter, at the close of the winter term, by the most advanced scholar. Two or three children were taken from the school in the Summer “because they had to get their lessons.” Several did not attend during the Winter, because, as alleged, of their great distance from school.

DISTRICT No. 11

"Osgood." Nathan Osgood. Miss Emogene B. Roby taught both terms, Summer and Fall; evidently yielding not to the temptation to make her work easy on account of the fewness of her scholars. The best explanation of the principles of decimal fractions anywhere witnessed on the part of certain pupils, who, two years ago, were reported as excelling in Mental Arithmetic! the same question as was asked the parents of District No. 7, and with even greater emphasis. (See col. 20.)

DISTRICT No. 12.

"Brook." C. W. Swain. Both terms in close succession, under the guidance of our oldest teacher, Miss Sarah P. Comerford, who had previously taught "about 70 months." In many respects this has proved the "banner school," giving us at the close a hard day's work; the forenoon being devoted to mathematics, the afternoon to other studies and rhetorical exercises. The classes had been well systematized and reduced in number, and the school vies with that of district No. 2 in giving us the best use of the black-board in Arithmetic. Also, the most satisfactory explanation of the cube root, with the aid of blocks, from the oldest pupil in attendance. Devotional exercises, and singing of an inspiring character, passages of Scripture being read as the voice of one man," by nearly the whole school in concert. The mutual co-operation and heart-felt sympathy existing between the teacher and all her scholars and patrons are highly gratifying.

DISTRICT No. 13.

"Mill." Thomas Webster, Jr. Miss Clara Estelle Smart, teacher the first term of school; Miss Mary E. Huse the second. The teachers were quite different in their natural temperaments and methods in the school room, but each useful in her place, and each in a measure supplementary to the other. The closing examination of the first term, as last year under the same teacher, was dashing and brilliant, with exercises of a high order, giving evidence of her enthusiastic labors during the term. That of the second term was more quiet, evidently without previous especial preparation, and, on that account, giving us a better opportunity to test the real standing and scholarship of the pupils. The school, though small, presents a wealth of natural talent which we trust may be happily developed in future years.

DISTRICT No. 16.

“Morrill.” David Shaw. The smallest school in town, under Miss Mary L. Parker, a teacher of large experience, who had taught sixty-two months before this term, and who seeks, not merely to ask the questions in the text book, but also to impart knowledge and stimulate thought by the use of additional questions. A fine specimen of concert reading.

All of which, with the Roll of Honor and Tabular Statement appended, is Respectfully Submitted by

MOSES T. RUNNELS,	}	School Committee.
